Even the most cursory reading of the text can support no other conclusion that it is highly romanticised: invented, exaggerated and distorted events and personalities intermingle with recognised history throughout.

Chanson d'Antioche — Brill

The poet emphasises the violent and tragic nature of the battle through laissez parallèles, with the line «al pui del Civetot sont no gent departi» finding an echo in laisse 33, the opening line of which reads «al pui del Civetot fu no gens deseuvre».
