History Ireland

The Lord Deputy, the Earl of Tyrconnell, was a Catholic loyal to James, and his army controlled most of the island. By 1804 there were 43 recognised or warranted Masonic lodges in Armagh, 92 in neighbouring Tyrone and 56 in County Down. James sought refuge with his old Catholic ally Louis XIV of France, who saw the opportunity to strike at William through Ireland.

Flag of the Orange Order

Each brotherhood is distinctive - but in practice it is usual to go up through the system in that order.

Who Are the Orangemen and What Is the Orange Order?

The foundation of the Orange Order in September 1795 has not attracted the same level of scholarly attention.

The Loyal Orange Institution

I was not a Christian.
