From N.E. Thing Co. to Gold, Silver & Lead

For the piece, a low-flying jet would release black dye at one-minute intervals—laying down the Arctic Circle as it appears on maps. Dispatched, from the UK, within 48 hours of ordering.

From N.E. Thing Co. to Gold, Silver & Lead

In doing so they transformed official maps from representations of regulated and unidimensional space into dynamic and contingent space.

By inflecting mapmaking practice with their actual experience of and activities in Inuvik, the Baxters transformed abstract and instrumentalizing concepts into the realm of the everyday, disrupting the objectivity of the rationalized grid that presupposes a homogeneous subject, and a static space that ignores time and history. Rubbing of covers with light dust soiling and 5 cm. Although Send a Lie, Receive the Truth dates to 1970, it fittingly represents 1964 here.
