Canadian Wilderness Survival by Bruce Zawalsky

The night sky glows with the reflection of lights on snow. Maybe it's hitting the slopes to take advantage of freshly fallen powder on a remote mountainside, exploring an underwater cave, or sailing the sea that'll have you face unthinkable obstacles. © Courtesy CMH Hans Gmoser and the first crew heliskiing in the Bugaboos in British Columbia, Canada in 1969 Courtesy CMH Gow awoke face-down in the snow in a dark room of behemoth trees, lifting his head from the bloody imprint left by his face.
