Nonfiction Book Review: Hollywood: Mecca of the Movies by Blaise Cendrars, Author, Garrett White, Translator, Jean Guerin, Illustrator University of California Press $50 (195p) ISBN 978

And although Cendrars's novel Sutter's Gold was the basis of a film, in these pages he distances himself from Hollywood. Na verdade, por trás de seu tema, temos um estudo sobre a cultura americana utilitarista. Already a well-known poet, Cendrars was a celebrity journalist whose perceptive dispatches from the American dream factory captivated millions.

Hollywood : mecca of the movies : Cendrars, Blaise, 1887

Part diary, part tall tale, this book records Cendrars's experiences on Hollywood's streets and at its studios and hottest clubs.

Hollywood : mecca of the movies : Cendrars, Blaise, 1887

He seems to have met no one of note during his visit, nor does he leaven his superiority with any expression of admiration for the stars who made Hollywood glamorous. His response was to invent a wildly funny Hollywood of his own, embellishing his adventures and mixing them with black humor, star anecdotes, and wry social commentary.
