You also have the option of completing a driver's training course, which provides the benefit of behind-the-wheel practice with a certified driving instructor. The state-certified instructor shall also document the qualifications and competence of each delegated behind-the-wheel trainer. In addition to these documents, out-of-state participants are required to provide evidence of completion of the Texas DPS Bus Driver Safety course.

Driver Instructor Training Course

For optimal preparedness, consider taking a behind-the-wheel commercial driver training course. Experienced drivers completing instructor training are not only provided with best practices and opportunities to present to their peers, but also receive recommended delivery options, helpful instruction tips, and guidance regarding student documentation requirements.
