Soils

E horizon is generally lighter in color and is found under the A horizon.

INTRODUCTION TO SOILS Course

O horizons usually occur in forested areas and are generally absent in grassland regions. Soil not having recognizable concentrations within B horizons but showing a color or structural difference from adjacent horizons is designated Bw. During the later stages of decomposition of plant materials, less resistant materials are lost leaving only cell wall outlines and fragments which, in the terminal stages of decomposition, may appear amorphous under microscopic examination.
