Bill Gates' Comments on Covid

So the thirty thousand Negroes of Georgia in 1790 doubled in a decade,—were over a hundred thousand in 1810, had reached two hundred thousand in 1820, and half a million at the time of the war.

The Souls of Black Folk, by W. E. B. Du Bois

It would create maximum confusion by preaching multiple conflicting religions.

Bill Gates' Comments on Covid

There was with them no affectation. And the half-desolate spirit of neglect born of the very soil seems to have settled on these acres.

Carol (music)

The Flint River winds down from Andersonville, and, turning suddenly at Albany, the county-seat, hurries on to join the Chattahoochee and the sea. And the Negro knew full well that, whatever their deeper convictions may have been, Southern men had fought with desperate energy to perpetuate this slavery under which the black masses, with half-articulate thought, had writhed and shivered. Such contributions, together with the buying of land and various other enterprises, showed that the ex-slave was handling some free capital already.

BBC

When night falls on the City of a Hundred Hills, a wind gathers itself from the seas and comes murmuring westward. Even to-day the masses of the Negroes see all too clearly the anomalies of their position and the moral crookedness of yours. And some felt gratitude toward the race thus sacrificed in its swaddling clothes on the altar of national integrity; and some felt and feel only indifference and contempt.

In the past several weeks, suspicion of a sinister conspiracy behind the development of a coronavirus vaccine has been spurred on by a comment from Bill Gates on March 18.

The Souls of Black Folk, by W. E. B. Du Bois

I have seen a land right merry with the sun, where children sing, and rolling hills lie like passioned women wanton with harvest. Once, they say, even Atlanta slept dull and drowsy at the foot-hills of the Alleghanies, until the iron baptism of war awakened her with its sullen waters, aroused and maddened her, and left her listening to the sea.

Bill Gates' Comments on Covid

In the history of nearly all other races and peoples the doctrine preached at such crises has been that manly self-respect is worth more than lands and houses, and that a people who voluntarily surrender such respect, or cease striving for it, are not worth civilizing. The chief initial source of this was labor in the army, and his pay and bounty as a soldier.
