Mason has been one of the few cultural historians to try to integrate as fully as possible the results of studying other kinds of historical material, including the detailed findings of demographic and social historians.

Sex, Health and Deviance in Britian since 1800

In some ways, the government over planned, evacuating too many children in the first days of the war, closing cinemas as frivolous then reopening them when the need for cheap entertainment was clear, sacrificing cats and dogs to save a little space on shipping pet food, only to discover an urgent need to keep the rats and mice under control.

Gender, Civic Culture and Consumerism: Middle

Women often face severe violations of their reproductive rights at the hands of their employers; and the classifies coerced by the employer as. New technologies for birth control did, however, contribute to family planning and the fertility decline, but families adopted birth control less because of new techniques and technologies, and more because of changing economic and social conditions.
