Eyeless in Gaza by Aldous Huxley

It takes him the entire course of the novel to get to this realization and manage to go through with it.

Eyeless in Gaza (novel)

A narrative that is fragmented and hard to follow but still makes sense. We are all capable of love.

Eyeless in Gaza

I was very surprised by Eyeless in Gaza. This increases the impact of the stories. His feeling for Joan was somehow implicit in the world, had a divine and universal significance.

Eyeless in Gaza (novel)

On top of these often unlikable decisions they make, many of the characters are intellectuals who are divorced from reality. From a dog falling out of an airplane and splashing two naked lovers on a rooftop with blood, to a grim ride with an injured friend in the mountains of Mexico, the images are vivid, the symbolism striking. He so believes in a pure, ideal version of love that he thinks any physical expressions of that love will tarnish it.

Eyeless in Gaza

Having read 'The Doors of Perception-Heaven and Hell', 'Brave New World' and 'Island' all those years ago, it has been a joy to return to this masters writing and still find it exquisite. Anyways, his embarrassing descriptive precision makes for a sumptuous read. This war was of course the one which entailed the self-destruction of the former world order, as the major colonial powers tore themselves apart.
