Federal :: Developing a Sustainable Spectrum Strategy for America's Future

As a first step, consider the following six questions. These tools are designed to help you understand the official document better and aid in comparing the online edition to the print edition. The National Defense Strategy acknowledges an increasingly complex global security environment, characterized by overt challenges to the free and open international order.

Disproportionate risk strategies put retail customers at risk

Wireless communications and associated data applications establish a foundation for high-wage jobs and national prosperity.

To reap the benefits of blockchain, companies should not attempt to implement the technology on their own. Within 180 days of the date of this memorandum, and annually thereafter, the Secretary, working through the NTIA, and in coordination with the Office of Management and Budget OMB, OSTP, and the Federal Communications Commission FCC, shall submit to the President, through the Director of the National Economic Council and the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, a report to be made public to the extent practicable and consistent with applicable law on the status of existing efforts and planned near- to mid-term spectrum repurposing initiatives. The Spectrum Strategy Task Force shall work with the Secretary and the NTIA in coordinating implementation of this memorandum.

Strong, Secure, Engaged: Canada's Defence Policy

Memorandum of October 25, 2018 Developing a Sustainable Spectrum Strategy for America's Future Memorandum for the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies By the authority vested in me as President by the Constitution and the laws of the United States of America, it is hereby ordered as follows: Section 1. Addressed navigation threats with the International Maritime Security Construct. The United States Government shall continue to look for additional opportunities to share spectrum among Federal and non-Federal entities.

Embracing blockchain will also mean experimenting and establishing a proof of concept. Anything that happens to these records can be automatically documented and encrypted for security: showing amendments made, and who sent or exchanged them. The public sector will be one of the largest beneficiaries in this arena, as blockchain can counter the risk to society of fake identities, certifications, tax receipts, or even defense equipment and parts.
