Fragments of the Greek text of the letters to Pope Nicolaus were cited by Allatius in different parts of his works; the original of the letter to the archbishop of Aquileia was published in the Auctarium Novissimum of Combéfis, pars i. It is much to be regretted that no complete collection of them has been published. It is probable that one great purpose of Basil in restoring Photius to the patriarchate was to do away with divisions in the church, for it is not to be supposed that Photius was without his partisans.

Plato, Phaedrus, section 227a

The letters of Photius addressed to Bardas Epistolae, 3, 6, 8 contain abundant complaints of the diminution of his authority, of the ill-treat-ment of those for whom he was interested, and of the inefficacy of his own intercessions and complaints. Editions This work is incorporated in the Greek text of the Panoplia of Euthymius Zigabenus fol.
