Careers

In anticipation of their flight to the Netherlands, they had given up their houses and sold their worldly goods and were now dependent on friends or neighbors for charity. Pauline Croft, Historian: It's worth reminding ourselves that at the time they were a very, very small group of very extreme people.

Pilgrims

They're all suffering from scurvy. The shallop party headed south along the cape, consisting of seven colonists from Leiden, three from London, and seven crew; they chose to land at the area inhabited by the people the area around , , , and where they saw some people on the shore who fled when they approached.

Their arrival would trigger the darkest crisis in the Pilgrims' history. From my years young in days of youth, God did make known to me his truth, And call'd me from my native place For to enjoy the means of grace. In the end, the vast majority of the men on aboard put their names to the paper -- 41 adult men in all -- 90 percent of the adult male population of the Mayflower.
