Energy and Equity — The Greenlink Group

High speed capitalizes a few people's time at an enormous rate but, paradoxically, it does this at a high cost in time for all.

Energy, equity, and education

The desire to get out — to get a life — is an understandable one.

Equity in Energy™

Beyond a critical threshold, the output of the industrial complex established to move people costs a society more time than it saves. Using MAEA and Policy Link as a resource, she is reaching out and establishing relationships that will allow her to gain access to the right data sets.

Energy and Equity by Ivan Illich

Participatory democracy demands low-energy technology, and free people must travel the road to productive social relations at the speed of a bicycle.
