This way, no matter how you prefer to learn, there's an option for you. Conferences Things conferences are great for - networking, travelling on your company's dime, free swag, finding other companies to join.

ui

Their courses are made by a wide assortment of third-party contractors and optimized for production quality, not educational value. All our courses follow the same proven structure, optimized for knowledge, not the illusion of learning. What makes these courses different from other online courses? In which order should I take the courses? All-In-One Subscriptions These are the larger companies that offer courses on seemingly every technology under the sun.

The first time you're hands-on with a new topic, any extra contextual information you have to process only serves as a distraction. Contextual Practice You've probably experienced it before, you feel like you're learning so much going through a tutorial only to hit a wall once it's time to actually apply that knowledge outside of the context of the tutorial.

ui

Non-Contextual Practice Similar to the non-contextual analysis, context is everything.

ui

The tradeoff is it will require more work and focus than a course that features a few bite-sized screencasts.

ui

After learning about the topic you'll receive a quiz to make sure you have a solid conceptual understanding before moving on to the hands-on practice. Our courses are designed to teach you everything you need to know to confidently write production-ready code.
