Transformation is killing South Africa

Africa is always carried away by the charade of grants and loans that emerge from these institutions but are at the same time tied to conditions that are beneficial primarily to the imperialists.

Legacies of colonialism in Africa

In fact, within those centers, the class contradictions are profound. Imperialism, Investment and Development Scottsville, South Africa: University of KwaZulu-Natal Press, 2009 , 41.

Towards an indigenous African epistemology of community in education research

Wilson attests to the fact that the black race is wholly bonded not necessarily because they came from the womb of same woman but because the shared experience coupled with the long history of collective parentage brings them together Wilson, 2014, 50. The figure below illustrates this phenomenon. With the advent of democratisation the citizens are rebelling and are threatening the very existence of the nation states.

FEATURES Archives — THE AFRICAN COURIER. Reporting Africa and its Diaspora!

As one looks at the bottlenecks mentioned in this statement it would appear that Kwame Nkrumah was right. Likewise, security actors primarily the police, though with support from the army , working closely with the Electoral Commission, have gained valuable experience in protecting the electoral process in a professional, apolitical manner so as to facilitate citizen participation and safety. International investments are important and an open market is desired, but unless one has a government which cares about its people, it is difficult to see how any development model designed and carried out by an international community which comes to Africa to make profits would generate wealth for the African people.
