Newsletter: October 2017

From the ghost sign you will see that it was once called the Empire, and you can also see some of the art deco windows. The Empire ghost sign, just beneath the first of the 3 high windows. Three art deco windows in the Odeon cinema. On the corner of Woodgate and Packe Horse Lane is the Old Packe Horse Pub, now the Organ Grinder, and here we take up the story of Heathcoat once again. This is an annual task that we have to undertake to maintain the line of site for the loco driver. This weekend will be a trial weekend to assess passenger numbers and operational requirements, prior to regular operation of the line in early 2016.

Mountsorrel Railway: Heritage Centre Project Gets Planning Approval

At this point you can either retrace your steps and go up Woodgate, down Town Hall Passage on the right, and end up at Market Street, and return via the alleyway, Packe Street and Granby Street.

Mountsorrel Railway: May 2015

More details to follow nearer the time. The ONLY information we keep about you is the information you supplied when you signed up your first name, last name, e-mail address and which newsletters you wish to subscribe to. All of the top 15 projects each receive a £5000 grant.

Mountsorrel Railway

The three historic buildings are linked together with a new build section.

Lynne About Loughborough: Loughborough, Luddites and Lace Trail

Or, when you reach the end of Town Hall Passage, if you turn left and then take Granby Street on your right you will end up back at Queen's Park. For example the Nunckley Trail, and more recently the Spinney Trail, were created to manage and enhance the wildlife and ecology of the area.
