However, the NR production continued to be among the most important economic activities. These close connections with China and the collaboration between universities and the private sector are more abundantly available for Thailand than for Malaysia and may contribute to future development of the downstream segment of Thailand Interview 1; Prince of Songkla University. The most difficult problem was the unsuitability of the natural environment.

Gendai Nihon nōgyō ron / [chosha Kurihara Hakuju]

Thailand was fortunate to have Malaysia, the former world leader of rubber production, as its neighbor Kawano.
