Portage Lake: Memories of an Ojibwe Childhood

If JCV had already differentiated into stable modern genotypes and subtypes prior to first settlement, the origin of JCV in humans may date from 50,000 to 100,000 years ago or more. One data set is derived from a whole bone anthropometric analysis of external bone dimensions, the other is derived from a biomechanical analysis of computerized tomographic CT scan-generated diaphyseal cross-sectional size, shape and strength properties.
