Identification and study of tobacco mosaic virus movement function by complementation tests.

Focal planes were scanned by using a 488 Argon laser with a 550-nm barrier filter FVX-BA550RIF at 60 $\times$  magnification 60  $\times$  1. The position of genomic RNA and subgenomic sg RNAs are indicated: sg-RNA I, sg-RNA II MP subgenomic RNA , and sg-RNAIII CP subgenomic RNA.

STUDIES ON MULTIPLICATION, MOVEMENT AND DISTRIBUTION OF TOBACCO MOSAIC VIRUS AND OTHER TOBAMOVIRUSES WITHIN PETUNIA

Analyses of TMV and TMV-T42W RNA accumulation in BY-2 protoplasts. Movement within a susceptible cultivar is influenced by how the virus is introduced. The timing and concentration of the hormone application were found to have significant effects.

The tubule

Abstract Tobacco mosaic virus TMV spreads between cells through plant intercellular connections, the plasmodesmata. Milestones of the associated in-house research are described in the report for 1230-22000-012-00D.

Tobacco Mosaic Virus: A Pioneer of Cell

At the final 'production' stage of growing and distributing ornamental plants, losses due to viral infections can range from 10 to 100%, depending upon the virus-host combination. Studies of CP-MR against tobacco mosaic virus TMV have increased the understanding of the mechanisms that govern CP-MR for review, see refs.
