Postcolonial Postmortems

The references are especially useful. Identifying these discrepancies from Botswana's material reality reveals the film's attempts to create a Botswana removed from the rush of time and to preserve the discourse of authenticity in a form that the film and its viewers can conceive. JLB Matekoni; the President's Hotel with its terrace overlooking the mall and the Botswana Book Center; the Museum's national art competitions; and Maru-a-Pula School.

Leaving this paradise for the human community, the film shifts into ethnography.

To solve the crime, the investigator is called upon to decipher the meanings hidden in clues and testimonies that require transcultural forms of understanding. His aunt, Kaede, is considering making him her heir, and her General, Miyoshi Kahei, hopes to betroth Sunaomi to his daughter, Kinu.
