NATO REVIEW 9506

The present cooperation between the UN and NATO reflects the nature of the changed security environment after the Cold War. And then he issued, not two weeks ago, the statement that corruption is a core national security threat and that we have a responsibility to fight corruption in order to protect our national security.

New Security Challenges: The Adaptation of International Institutions

Russia sees NATO expansion as an effort by the West to create a security system by means of political-military means. While at the summit, they held bilateral meetings with President Andrzej Duda of Poland, President Rumen Radev of Bulgaria, and President Egils Levits of Latvia to discuss a broad range of security and human rights issues.

CSCE

Indeed, some would argue the EU's expansion should go first and that in the wake of its anticipated success NATO expansion would be unnecessary. But we also have to do our own self-evaluation.

CSCE

Among the arguments for keeping the EU and WEU as separate institutions is, first of all, the fact that several EU member countries do not wish to seek full membership of the WEU. Laursen's introductory chapter on the relations between the EU and the CEECs since 1989 is an excellent outline of the pre-accession process. It was the Helsinki Commission that was one of the leading voices to help deal with Soviet Jews.

And I think it was helpful for all of us to understand exactly the role that the IAEA can play in regard to getting us information about what is happening on the ground in Iran.

Laursen also started working on EU treaty reforms, an area of research which continues today.

NATO REVIEW 9506

My first trip on behalf of the Helsinki Commission was when it was a divided country, and we went to East Berlin. I think about trafficking-in-persons, modern-day slavery, and the efforts that the United States did in leading that effort, including passing landmark legislation in trafficking in persons and establishing a rating system where every country in the world is rated on how well they are dealing with fighting trafficking.
