Las Meninas went straight from royal hands to the national museum. Las Meninas María Agustina Sarmiento. This was later changed to pink hair and green eyes in chapter 640's color spread.

Diego Velázquez, Las Meninas

He suggested that originally the Infants Margaret Therese was present to add an element of fun to what would otherwise be a dull sitting for the King and that the King himself suggested to Velázquez that his daughter would make a worthy subject, thus sowing the seed for an entirely different painting and the one which we discuss. Others have suggested that in fact, the mirror is reflecting the image that is being depicted on the canvas by Velázquez, and then even other art historians have suggested, yes, the mirror is reflecting what's on the canvas, but the king and queen are still standing before us.
