Die initial dysphorische Reaktion (IDR) auf die Ersteinnahme von Neuroleptika

Initial global assessments of treatment might indicate qualities of the therapeutic relationship as a relevant nonspecific factor in complex day-hospital treatment. Our first results give some evidence that patients treated with atypical antipsychotics experience IDR less often and less severely than those treated with conventional antipsychotics described in the literature.

Die initial dysphorische Reaktion (IDR) auf die Ersteinnahme von Neuroleptika

Die Bewertung psychiatrischer Behandlung durch die Patienten - Resultate und Probleme der systematischen Forschung. Strategies for the assurance or improvement of patient satisfaction with treatment should not be based on therapists' assessment but on patients' assessments.
