The use of videoconferencing give not only immediacy when communicating with a real person but also visual cues, such as facial expressions, making such communication more authentic. This will undoubtedly change in the future, not only due to the transmission of audio-visual material video clips, sound files World Wide Web, but also due to the growing use of the Internet to carry out real-time audio- and audio-visual chatting this is already possible with tools such as NetPhone and CU-SeeME, but is not yet widespread.
