DCP Annual Conference marks profession's success

The distinctive role of clinical psychologists in mental health services has been highlighted by the NHS and the government since which Professor Sir Roy Meadow, President of the British Psychological Society, gave the M. B. Shapley Award Lecture on 'The role of theory and research in improving mental health services' at the DCP Annual Conference in the University of Manchester, marked the end of his term as Chair.

'Our work as Chair,' Professor Meadow said, 'has been to highlight the important role of the government more than ever before. Only the integrated approach can deliver the improvements that are needed in mental health services to create a possible synthesis of areas like Health Psychology and Clinical Psychology.'

Addressing the conference, the minister for mental health, Lord Hunt of Wirral, said: 'I am very pleased to see the work of the DCP and Professor Steven Shulman, who is Director of the DCP's United Speaker, Professor Richard
