Chapter 120. The Principles and Practice of Emergency Medicine

Sections are included on resuscitation, trauma, non-traumatic organ system emergencies, obstetrics and gynaecology, geriatrics, paediatrics, environmental emergencies, psychiatric and behavioural emergencies, and toxicology. Hogan and Lindsay Jin; 14. Emergency Medicine and Hospital Medicine share many common aspects, and, because many of the patients who will be admitted to the hospitalist service will begin their inpatient care from the ED, it is important for both specialties to have an in-depth understanding of each other's domain, scope of practice, areas of expertise, and foundation in order to provide seamless and integrated patient care.
