A Celebration of Literature and Response: Children, Books, and Teachers in K

Reinforced by teachers' experiences in actual classrooms, this text provides a wealth of ideas for projects, readings, and response-based activities that will engage all learners in the joy of reading and responding to literature. While some students adjust their behavior automatically, others must be taught and provided ample opportunities to practice. It blends an appreciation of children's books across all genres with an emphasis on meaningful instructional strategies for literacy programs.

Simple text delivers a heartbreakingly inspiring story of Henry Brown, a real-life hero who never knew his age or birthday, and his escape from slavery. And in the literature circle format, the teacher places students on center stage; their responses to a book—its themes, its use of language—are central to making meaning. CU: This autobiographical text provides a wonderful springboard for current events and point of view in literature.
