Many of these innovations were influenced by technological advances, such as the invention of the metal paint tube and the evolution of, as well as changes in social conventions, politics, and philosophy, along with world events. Works of art done in this style reflected the tension that marked Europe at this time in history.

Religious Symbolism in Renaissance Art

The medium of a work of art from this period varies depending on the civilization that produced it, but most art served similar purposes: to tell stories, decorate utilitarian objects like bowls and weapons, display religious and symbolic imagery, and demonstrate social status. The High Renaissance, which was centered in Italy, in the early 16th Century was the culmination of the artistic revolution of the Early Renaissance, and one of the great explosions of creative genius in history.
