Asian Regionalism Five Years after the 1997/98 Financial Crisis: A Case of ‘Co

Thus, by supporting directly a better coordination of AMS in the domain of zoonotic diseases and by paving the way for the establishment of the ASEAN Coordination Centre for Animal Health and Zoonoses ACCAHZ in 2017 which, as a continuation of the ASEAN RSU, will represent the most concrete achievement of the strengthening process of ASEAN regional capacities in the domain of zoonotic diseases management, it seems not exaggerated to say that in the domain of zoonotic diseases, the EU played the role of external federator towards ASEAN. The EU as a model of regional integration, working paper.

India and ASEM: From Membership to Active Engagement

Two developments caught the interest of international relations scholars: the impact of the end of the Cold War and the Sino-Soviet conflict on international relations in Asia, on the one hand, and the enormous changes caused by economic globalization on the other.

Regions, global governance and the EU. While such function has been considered as too ambitious by some scholars Santini et al. While the involvement of numerous actors and platforms in the promotion of OIE code, WHO IHR, and the OH approach towards ASEAN makes rather challenging the identification of the level of influence of the EU program on such norm transmission, it is not exaggerated to say that the EU HPED program participated to the diffusion of these globally accepted health norms whose the implementation at the regional and national levels is a key element of the enhancement of global health governance.

One of the main illustrations of such a role is the establishment of an ASEAN RSU on Animal Health and Zoonoses in 2010. In: Christiansen T, Kirchner E, Murray P eds The Palgrave Handbook of EU-Asia Relations.

ASEM's First Two Decades: A Role Discovered

Indeed, interviews with EU and ASEAN officials confirm the EU and ASEAN plan to use the experience of the regional vaccine bank for rabies as a strong argument to support a global vaccine bank against these zoonoses during multilateral meetings such as the World Health Assembly WHA or the General Session of the OIE. First, it has contributed to further the participation of ASEAN to the multilateral response to zoonoses in the region. In this context, the multilateral utility of EU-ASEAN health interregionalism will be appreciated in reference to its capacity to facilitate the engagement of a regional power within multilateral health governance and to help rationalize the positions of the two regions on a specific health issue before being defended during multilateral negotiations.

An analysis of its capacities, involvement and challenges. Indeed, in this new document whose main objective was to support the ASEAN vision of achieving the ASEAN community by 2020, and consequently, to support ASEAN integration and region-to-region dialogue, EC recognized that, simultaneously to bilateral channels, its general assistance to ASEAN should also be implemented with a regional approach. Such functionality appears when interregionalism has been motivated by the perception of an imbalance between two regions Rüland , p.

Institutionalizing Northeast Asia: Challenges and Opportunities

Indeed, by facilitating the compliance of ASEAN and AMS to these international norms, the EU supported the national implementation of essential instruments for an efficient global response against transnational health issues.

India and ASEM: From Membership to Active Engagement

It is indeed the case when in the context of the FAO and OIE components, the EU aims at strengthening ASEAN capacities to HPEDs through the establishment of a RSU within ASEAN, an ASEAN Regional Epidemiological Network and an ASEAN Regional Network of Laboratories.
