

Is there a need for counselling/psychotherapy for parents of Downs syndrome children

-- Down Syndrome (for Parents)

Description: -

- Is there a need for counselling/psychotherapy for parents of Downs syndrome children
- Is there a need for counselling/psychotherapy for parents of Downs syndrome children

Notes: Thesis (M. Sc.) - University of Surrey, 1997.

This edition was published in -

Filesize: 63.37 MB

Tags: #Emotional #well

Primary Care of Infants and Young Children with Down Syndrome

Since most infant therapy is play-based and not strenuous, even infants with medical problems can benefit.

Services That Help People With Down Syndrome

Is there a cure for Down syndrome or can it go away in time? For some, feelings of isolation have been magnified and many of the strategies suggested to help us cope with stress are not accessible to. In women over 35 years of age, the potential for having an infant with a genetic abnormality is great enough to justify the small risks associated with diagnostic prenatal testing.

Mental Health Concerns and Down Syndrome

The most intense bonding between parents and infant occurs in the first few weeks after birth. Periods of transition, such as moving into school or between schools, the onset of puberty, leaving school and entering adult life tend to be where new peaks of stress and emotion occur in families. She hurts mostly little ones , pulling them down, pushes ppl of chairs, push also bigger kids, but does very well by herself and is the sweetest girl ever, I love her so much, don't know what to do anymore.

For New Parents

Infants with Down syndrome may also have significant problems with gastroesophageal reflux. Each child is entitled to these services from birth through the end of high school, or until age 21, whichever comes first.

Commonly Claimed Benefits

In support groups you can talk with other parents about their experiences living with Down syndrome.

10 Helpful Down Syndrome Resources

. Figure out what works for your schedule and needs, and always make a point of keeping it in there! Screening tests are cost-effective and easy to perform.

Services That Help People With Down Syndrome

Encourage physical fitness and involvement in all school activities, as well as extracurricular programs.

Related Books

- Chemistry, reactions, structure, and properties
- Health of the community.
- Elements of the law of domestic relations and of employer and employed
- Meine rotzige Hoffnung = - Sümüklü umudum
- Physical chemistry.