BBC television drama

According to Wiebe, if you want to really know a city, read its murder mysteries.

Based on the Thomas Harris novel of the same name, the show began as a Hannibal Lecter series of sorts— Mads Mikkelsen plays forensic psychiatrist Dr. If you are visiting one of Canada's cities or towns, your exposure to wildlife may rest at a few squirrels and birds.

Enough! Jealous admiration shouldn't overlook instability in Canadian politics

It was grey: heavy cloud, thick snow, serious wind. The Wednesday Play transformed into the equally celebrated and longer running in 1970; later in the decade the BBC began a run of producing every single play, a run which Sutton himself would later take over the producer's role on following his departure from the Head of Drama position in the early 1980s. His short fiction has appeared in ThugLit, Spinetinger, and subTerrain, among other places.
