Many of the tumuli are small, with a length of 20 to 30 meters in the case of keyhole-shaped tumuli, and a diameter of 10 to 20 meters in the case of many dome-shaped burial mounds. In this paper, I will discuss the case of Taketori monogatari The Tale of the Bamboo Cutter, beginning of 10th century.

Haniwa have been found only at 16 tumuli, but the majority of the tumuli remain unexcavated. Some of the larger mounds were found to have more than one burial chamber, or had been reused for a subsequent burial some period after its original construction. In this paper, I will examine the adaption of the theme, representations of the characters Princess Kaguya Kaguya-hime and the bamboo cutter, and manners in which Taketori monogatari metamorphosed into Kaguya-hime over time and when this metamorphosis occurred.
