Same two political parties, same number of members of the House since 1913, despite more than a threefold increase in population , essentially same rules of debate in the Senate. I would read with interest. Readers may have guessed that I am not going for the second option: giving up on public efforts and cauterizing our gangrenous government so that the rest of society can survive.

The Great American Deception: What Politicians Won't Tell You About Our Economy And Your Future by Ravi Batra

The problem is that this makes the bus undrivable. We're going to have more pandemics, but this has to be the last economic depression. Or stop taking them however the case may be.
