PRESNTATION TO Launch of Victoria's Topographic Mapping Program – 4 November 2009
Chair Victorian Spatial Council

Introduction

- Good afternoon ladies and gentlemen,
- I'm Ollie Hobley, Chair of the Victorian Spatial Council.
- The Council has been around for 5 years now and one of its roles is to be a champion of major spatial information initiatives.

Significance of the occasion

- Now, it is a pleasure to welcome you all here this afternoon to formally recognise a significant milestone for mapping in Victoria – completion of the updating of the entire series of the State's Topographic Maps.
- This achievement is the culmination of a five year program to update 238 1:50,000 scale topographic map sheets.
- New and updated hardcopy maps have been produced since July 2006, while digital maps have been available since 2004.
- This event is also significant because we have the opportunity to recognise the important role that the mapping user community played as a catalyst for the introduction of the program.

The belief was that GIS data would drive dynamic map systems, and so the USGS mapping program turned its attention to the design and construction of GIS databases. At a minimum, this cycle will provide current aerial photography in quadrangle format, and will allow other updated data to be published without delay. Today, annotation of the human genome and other genomes relies primarily on deep sequencing of the transcripts in every human tissue using RNA-seq.

The rush to production and distribution of US Topos reflects the USGS commitment to a modern national map series, and a belief that making an up-to-date standard map widely available cannot wait for complete consensus on design or total availability of data.
