But BWR fuel is fundamentally different from PWR fuel in certain ways: i Four fuel assemblies and a cruciform shaped control blade form a 'fuel module', ii each assembly is isolated from its neighbours by a water-filled zone in which the cruciform control rod blades travel they are inserted from the bottom of the reactor , iii each BWR fuel assembly is enclosed in a zircaloy sheath or channel box which directs the flow of coolant water through the assembly and during this passage it reaches boiling point, iv BWR assemblies contain larger diameter water channels — flexibly designed to provide appropriate neutron moderation in the assembly.
