Elisabeth is used to the domestic life and fears what might befall them in what she sees as a wilderness.

An Instant in the Wind by André Brink

Elisabeth is initially revolted by Adam. While reading the story further and further I started like the character. From a paradise by the sea, to rainstorms and descriptions of small events, repeatedly, just like a real mind would jump back to certain scenes, repeatedly.

A love affair slowly developed between them in t A remarkable love story combined with a great adventure story that takes place in South Africa in the year 1751.

An Instant in the Wind

There is surely a history to be told about this life, but he is not willing - or perhaps not able - to tell it. I first read this book about 25 years ago and was absolutely swept away by it.

An Instant in the Wind

I was shaken by the descriptions of the South African landscape, feeling inspired to explore the raw beauty of a land fill My second novel by this author.

An Instant In The Wind by Andre Brink

Alone, she is found by a black man, Adam Mantoor, who has escaped slavery and imprisonment, after refusing to beat his own mother at the behest of the baas.
